THE CROAKER

Volume 37, Issue #11

From the President!

Of all the year fall is the time when change is most apparent. In all I do this time of year the fading of summer and the rise of winter is apparent. Every morning as I take my dogs for a walk I can enjoy the colors of the leaves and the brisk autumn air, telling me it's only going to get colder. So we prepare; my wood shed is nearing full, my plow truck is ready to go and I am bringing in the last of my garden.

As I was driving home from church today it got me thinking, what do I need to change myself before winter. This is a season of masks after all. Children find it entertaining to run around dressed as ghosts and goblins while we wear masks to hide our demons. Ephesians 5 tells us to be imitators of Christ. So I ask what masks are you going to set aside to be better imitators of Christ.

In Gods love. Your servant

Arthur Richards
